

NALOXONE INFORMATION SHEET

What is Naloxone

Naloxone (also called Narcan, Kloxxado, Nalone, Evzio, Prenoxad Injection, Narcanti, Narcotan, and Zimhi) is a life-saving drug that anyone can give to someone who is having an opioid overdose.

If you have any opioid medications (i.e., prescription pain killers) in your house, it's important to have Naloxone available in case anyone accidentally takes too much.

Getting Naloxone

In the State of Washington Naloxone is freely available without a prescription from most pharmacies, but it can be expensive.

You may be able to get Naloxone for a small co-pay or free if you have a prescription from your provider.

You can always get Naloxone for free from:

- Kelly-Ross pharmacy, by completing an online form at:
 - o <https://www.kelley-ross.com/services/naloxone/king-county-naloxone-access/>
(it usually takes 2-5 days to receive the Naloxone in the mail)
- Or from one of the following locations (please move map to see your area)
 - o <https://www.google.com/maps/d/viewer?mid=1R4YEVrWzXD7zq2ZpyWVV7PEWYumijq6L&femb=1&ll=37.118154%2C-119.831823&z=7>

How to give Naloxone videos

- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=67TGEOEqVXo>

- <https://narcan.com/en/resources>